Rankings reflect sales for the week ending October 1, for books sold in both print and electronic formats as reported by vendors offering a wide range of titles. The venues for print books include independent book retailers; national, regional and local chains; online and multimedia entertainment retailers; university, gift, supermarket and discount department stores; and newsstands. E-book rankings reflect sales from leading online vendors of e-books. E-book sales are tracked for fiction and general nonfiction titles. E-book sales for advice & how-to books, children's books and graphic books will be tracked at a future date. Titles are included regardless of whether they are published in both print and electronic formats or just one format. E-books available exclusively from a single vendor will be tracked at a future date. The universe of print book dealers is well established, and sales of print titles are statistically weighted to represent all outlets nationwide. The universe of e-book publishers and vendors is rapidly emerging, and until the industry is settled sales of e-books will not be weighted. Among the categories not actively tracked at this time are: perennial sellers, required classroom reading, textbooks, reference and test preparation guides, journals, workbooks, calorie counters, shopping guides, comics, crossword puzzles and self-published books. Publisher credits for e-books are listed under the corporate publishing name instead of by publisher's division. Royalty Share, a firm that provides accounting services to publishers, is assisting The Times in its corroboration of e-book sales. An asterisk (*) indicates that a book's sales are barely distinguishable from those of the book above it. A dagger (†) indicates that some retailers report receiving bulk orders. (A full version of this method is on the combined list page).

			35	ALEPH , by Paulo Coelho. (Knopf Doubleday.)

Rankings reflect sales for the week ending October 1, for books sold in both print and electronic formats as reported by vendors offering a wide range of general interest titles. The sales venues for print books include independent book retailers; national, regional and local chains; online and multimedia entertainment retailers; university, gift, supermarket and discount department stores; and newsstands. E-book rankings reflect sales from leading online vendors of e-books in a variety of popular e-reader formats. E-book sales are tracked for fiction and general nonfiction titles. E-book sales for advice & how-to books, children's books and graphic books will be tracked at a future date. Titles are included regardless of whether they are published in both print and electronic formats or just one format. E-books available exclusively from a single vendor will be tracked at a future date. The universe of print book dealers is well established, and sales of print titles are statistically weighted to represent all outlets nationwide. The universe of e-book publishers and vendors is rapidly emerging, and until the industry is settled sales of e-books will not be weighted. Among the categories not actively tracked at this time are: perennial sellers, required classroom reading, textbooks, reference and test preparation guides, journals, workbooks, calorie counters, shopping guides, comics, crossword puzzles and self-published books. The appearance of a ranked title reflects the fact that sales data from reporting vendors has been provided to The Times and has satisfied commonly accepted industry standards of universal identification (such as ISBN13 and EISBN13 codes). Publishers and vendors of all ranked titles conformed in timely fashion to The New York Times Best Seller Lists requirement to allow for independent corroboration of sales for that week. Publisher credits for e-books are listed under the corporate publishing name instead of by publisher's division. Weekly sales of both print books and e-books are reported confidentially to The New York Times. The Best Seller Lists are prepared by the News Surveys and Election Analysis Department of The New York Times. Royalty Share, a firm that provides accounting services to publishers, is assisting The Times in its corroboration of e-book sales. An asterisk (*) indicates that a book's sales are barely distinguishable from those of the book above it. A dagger (†) indicates that some retailers report receiving bulk orders.

Editor's Choice

THE BETTER ANGELS OF OUR NATURE: Why Violence Has Declined, by Steven Pinker. (Viking, $40.) Are humans essentially good or bad? Has the past century seen moral progress or a moral collapse? Pinker addresses these questions and more.

LOST MEMORY OF SKIN, by Russell Banks. (Ecco/HarperCollins, $25.99.) Banks's novel about a paroled sex offender bravely tries to find humanity in people whom society despises, often for good reason.

LUMINOUS AIRPLANES, by Paul La Farge. (Farrar, Straus & Giroux, $25.) After the dot-com crash, this novel's hero, a programmer, returns shaken to the town where he spent childhood summers.

KNOCKING ON HEAVEN'S DOOR: How Physics and Scientific Thinking Illuminate the Universe and the Modern World, by Lisa Randall. (Ecco/HarperCollins, $29.99.) A Harvard professor meditates on the nature of science and where physics is headed.

POLITICAL EVIL: What It Is and How to Combat It, by Alan Wolfe. (Knopf, $27.95.) Wolfe, a political scientist at Boston College, maintains that moralizing is not the best way to deal with political evil.

A THOUSAND LIVES: The Untold Story of Hope, Deception, and Survival at Jonestown, by Julia Scheeres. (Free Press, $26.) Newly released F.B.I. files inform this account of the 1978 massacre.

ALIBIS: Essays on Elsewhere, by André Aciman. (Farrar, Straus & Giroux, $25.) Aciman is a spirited travel guide, alive to history but also sensitive about food, sunshine, art and aimless wandering.

BOUNDARIES, by Elizabeth Nunez. (Akashic, $22.95.) Nunez's latest novel picks up where "Anna In-Between" left off, with focus on the heroine's parents.

RIVER OF SMOKE, by Amitav Ghosh. (Farrar, Straus & Giroux, $28.) This sequel to the novel "Sea of Poppies" follows opium's 19th-century trail to China.

Paperback Row

CREATE DANGEROUSLY: The Immigrant Artist at Work, by Edwidge Danticat. (Vintage, $14.95.) Danticat, whose books include the story collection "Krik? Krak!" and the novel "Breath, Eyes, Memory," grew up in Haiti in the 1970s, under the Duvalier dictatorships (she has lived in the United States since the age of 12). These essays reflect on the Haitian diaspora and artists who create despite the horrors that drove them from their homelands.

THE ADULTS, by Alison Espach. (Scribner, $15.) As Emily Vidal, the teenage narrator of Espach's wry first novel, looks on, her affluent suburban family disintegrates. In a world where couples divorce, neighbors commit suicide and teachers have suspect relationships with students, Emily loses faith in the adults around her.

THE LAST BOY: Mickey Mantle and the End of America's Childhood, by Jane Leavy. (Harper Perennial, $16.99.) In "Sandy Koufax" (2002), Leavy alternated an inning-by-inning account of that great pitcher's perfect game in 1965 with a deeply researched study of his life. "The Last Boy" is an episodic tour of Mantle's athletic achievements — three M.V.P. awards, the triple crown in 1956 — and his physical and emotional traumas. "Leavy comes as close as perhaps anyone ever has to answering "What makes Mantle Mantle?," Keith Olbermann wrote in the Book Review. "She transcends the familiarity of the subject, cuts through both the hero worship and the backlash of pedestal-wrecking in the late 20th century."

THE MEMORY OF LOVE, by Aminatta Forna. (Grove, $14.95.) This novel of passion and betrayal examines the lives of a retired academic, a British psychologist and a talented surgeon, encompassing both the political unrest of Sierra Leone in the late 1960s and the ruinous civil war of the 1990s.

THE HARE WITH AMBER EYES: A Hidden Inheritance, by Edmund de Waal. (Picador, $16.) De Waal, a distinguished English ceramist who inherited a collection of 264 netsuke — intricate, thimble-size Japanese carvings (including the hare of his title) — ingeniously puts the figurines at the heart of this account of his family's survival in Nazi-occupied Europe.

NEMESIS, by Philip Roth. (Vintage International, $15.) It's the summer of 1944 in Roth's suspenseful novel, and a polio epidemic has taken hold of a Newark neighborhood. With fear and suspicion spreading as fast as the disease, a young playground director and military reject named Bucky Cantor turns the outbreak into his own patriotic battleground. "Nemesis" is "suffused with precise and painful tenderness," Leah Hager Cohen wrote here. "The narration is evocative of a Greek chorus, at once communal and all-knowing."

BOILING MAD: Behind the Lines in Tea Party America, by Kate Zernike. (St. Martin's Griffin, $15.99.) What lies behind the Tea Party movement? Zernike, a national correspondent for The New York Times, provides a concise look at the movement's origins and operations while putting a human face on its adherents.

THE RADLEYS, by Matt Haig. (Free Press, $14.99.) A family of abstaining vampires in an English suburb suffer from their suppression of instinct in Haig's droll exploration of moral conflict.
